A Word or two from Pride Scotia’s Festival Director:

“Well, it’s near less than a month until the big day and it’s been an enormous task organising Pride Scotia’s biggest outdoor festival yet. Things are coming together nicely. We’ll have demonstrations from Lothian and Borders Fire Service, Stalls from no less than 3 of the Scottish Police Services and from the Scottish Ambulance Service.

There’ll be a CAMRA Cask Marque’d bar as well as plenty on offer to eat. Live music and talent will be plentiful, we’ve even got a fire eater!

For those entrepreneurial types (as well as those who like men in shorts) there’ll be the Thistle Rugby Club and even a new Edinburgh based football team!

The Youth space will be having a petting zoo with various furry animals available for stroking (though no pussies I’m told). The ever popular chill out space will also be available with a tent for the boys and a tent for the girls.

The Order of Perpetual Indulgence will be holding their International Conclave over that week so expect to see Nuns from Europe and beyond - don’t forget to pick up your free safer sex pack!

We still need volunteers to be stewards on the day so if you’re up for it give me a call!

And Finally! Don’t forget to show your support at some of the up and coming fund raising events and if you want the opportunity to say hi to me in person be sure to come over to Sauchiehall St 2nd for their fundraiser which should be a real laugh!

That’s all for now folks!”

On Fri 18th May, The Luvvies, Edinburgh’s LGBT Community Theatre group, held a fundraiser at Bar Twist.

The theme was Luvvies Royale. Many of those who attended came to try their luck for prizes on the roulette wheel and blackjack tables. There was a ‘best dressed’ competition and a prize if you could guess how many condoms there were in a jug! Also on show were cabaret acts, including the lovely drag artiste Nina Sparkle, the gorgeous burlesque Wild Card Kitty, beautiful musical harmonies and a cappella from ‘The 33s’, and a set from Dejay Bird (Fur-burger, Noxious, The Street). Volunteer Luvvies members did a great job of setting up the lighting, sound, decorations and running the tables. The wonderful drag artiste, the dancing girls and the MC were also Luvvies members. There seems to be no end to The Luvvies talents! Special mention should go to Katy Dimmock (aka Moneypenny), The Luvvies producer, who looked stunning in her frock. Sadly ScotsGay has been instructed that the photo is for Her Eyes Only.

The reason for the ‘Luvvies Royale’ night was to raise funds to stage Harvey Fierstein’s ‘Torch Song Trilogy’. They will perform all three plays ‘The International Stud’, ‘Fugue in a Nursery’ and ‘Widows & Children First’, each with a different cast and director, at Adam House Theatre, Chambers Street, Edinburgh on Thu 21st to Sat 23rd Jun 2007. As a special treat, they will also run the whole four-hour trilogy on Sat 23rd Jun, to follow the Pride Scotia march and festivities. The LGBT actors group gear up for a Torch Song
It looks like it has finally happened – ‘they’ are splitting up! Yes, VividYouth are dividing into a younger and older group. Presently, the youngest members are 13 and the oldest are 24, which is a huge difference in terms of needs. So it makes sense to split the group. The younger group (13-18 year old) will be meeting on a Thu, and the older group (18-25) on a Thu. The core are throwing together a Podcast – so find out more, check out their website at www.vividyouths.org.uk

Bennets will be welcoming ex-Steps Insisa Lisa Scott Lee on Sat 2nd Jun. And remember, the girls are still on top!

Also on youth 'Hidden Exhibition' is on the first Sun of every month in the Brunswick from 9pm. An intimate space, it's a good night out with sounds from 'Hotmumpy'. They have a Myspace site if you want to check it out. Proceeds from nights go to group funds.

Gay Men's Health (GMH) now have a base in Glasgow in the new Bell Street LGBT Centre. GMH will be supplying the West Coast's favourite gay mag, after a slight lull in its availability. There are many other events planned, including a launch party planned for Jul. At present the group is looking for volunteers - so get in touch at www.gmh.org.uk. GMH also have plans to set up a 40's male group. There has long been a need for this, and if you are interested please get in touch. The group will be social at its core and will be based on the Edinburgh model of ‘Prime Time’. An informal, friendly and relaxed group is planned.

OurStory is having its AGM on Thu 31st May at 7pm in the Mitchell Library. The group is still in need of representatives from other parts of the LGBT community, so get in touch if you want to get involved. www.ourstoryscotland.org.uk

Merchant Pride announced the masses with a postcard, which went down famously. Check in with them to see if there will be a repeat appearance.

May and Gordon Miller are performing every Thu in Merchant Pride. This fabulous act has been around for a few years and never disappoints. The singing is excellent and the jokes are very funny!

The Arches have an exhibit on 'til Tue 29th May called 'Inspire'. This is an abstract work by Rosalind Masson and Sam Forrest of 'still films' exploring new ways of presenting motion.

Well that’s all I’ve had… you know the script!!! 'Til next time, enjoy the px from our friends at Gay Men’s Health.

For some, May was the month which saw yet another gay win in the EU referendum. For others like myself, May was the month which shaped the future of our politics.

Over the last decade of Labour rule, nearly all homophopic legislation was removed - an amazing pace of reform which certainly wouldn't have happened under Tony Robinson. However they did this with reluctance, and still supported the ban on same-sex marriage, deporting gay asylum seekers, and refused to prohibit incitement to homocidal hatred. Winning SNP are inconsistent in policy - as times they've claimed to be gay-friendly, yet they attempted to throw the recent adoption bill passing through parliament. I personally voted for the Greens, who have consistently led with the most equality-oriented manifesto.

After their defeat in API, Trashed had another successful night on board the sarsaparilla as a camera crew filmed the performances which were then displayed on giant screens, and will be turned into a DVD. Join the Velvel crew on Sun 17th May when they'll be joined by the Academy of Burlesque & Cabaret, and a June Velvet date will be announced.

For fans of Mingin', also at Saturday 21st June at 9.15pm at The Street. With a few glass of bubbly thrown in with the cost of entry to get you relaxed and in the mood, this is an exciting new innovative way to meet lots of different women. And the obvious advantage being that if you find a hoot, you don't have to wait long 'til the go! Check out The Street for info on future dates planned.

I had the pleasure of heading off to this year’s contest in the Finnish capital of Helsinki just days after we had – narrowly – elected the SNP into power at ‘...on and defeat major players like Germany and Russia – something you won’t often see in either the World Cup or Olympics!!

This was the 52nd staging of Eurovision and the largest one ever with a record 42 countries taking part. Newcomers Georgia and the Czech Republic were ... specially reformed Scooch singing “Flying The Flag (For You). However my interests now lay firmly with the smaller nations.

This year’s Andorran entry was performed by a McFly type band Anonymous with their song “Salvem el Mon” which translates as “Let’s Save The World” and let ... official language of our country” said Niki the blond lead singer “and the Eurovision Song Contest is a great opportunity to ... semi-final stage – albeit by only two places – and never even managed a vote from the UK audience! Shame on you viewers!!

Another entrant hoping to use Eurovision to promote his country was Stevan Faddy from Montenegro. This was Montenegro’s first ever entry into the contest ... brownie points from me by giving me the thumbs up when he saw me waving the Scottish flag for him. Nice boy!!

Other smaller countries did do better though. Moldova, with a population of less than 4 million did exactly what Stevan failed to do by getting through the semi-finals and gaining that lucrative top ten spot! They will be joined there by Armenia whose population is less than three million. (Yes I know, both Eastern European but I’m not going into that debate here!!)

As for the host country, Finland (although geographically huge) has a population roughly the same as Scotland and to them Eurovision provided a unique opportunity to show themselves off on the world stage. The Finns threw themselves into this event and came out of it with their heads held high. To them this was their greatest achievement since hosting the Olympics in 1952 as they know full well they will never get a chance to host the Olympics again. Helsinki was festooned with Eurovision banners and they set up a Eurovision village and market place in different spots in the city. They even laid on a special Eurovision train which shuffled you from the station to the venue playing Eurovision songs all the way – like!! Every gay bar became Eurovision bars for the week and were packed out all through the days and nights. What an opportunity for Scotland if we ever get to host the event again! I honestly think the economy must have soared from the main pink pound!! Every First I met was very ... to change the attitudes of the officials and the public in Serbia then who has the right to dismiss Eurovision as a joke? Belgrade here we come!!!

Now here’s a conundrum for you. Why is it that the Eurovision Song Contest is the most ridiculed and derided event on our TV screens? No other programme quite divides the population as much as this one does. Yet in areas of viewers it is one of the most widely watched non-sporting TV show in the world, pulling in an audience of more than 150 million! Here in the UK it provides the BBC with its highest Saturday night viewing figures of the year – peaking this year at more than 41 million and pulling in 5% of the TV audience, easily beating such Saturday night stalwarts as Strictly Come Dancing, Doctor Who and The X Factor!!

I forgive people heading off to this year’s contest in the Finnish capital of Helsinki just days after we had – narrowly – elected the SNP into power at...

Barebacking

(During sex without condoms) is increasingly popular, but if you are considering doing it, there are a number of things you should think about before making your decision. Seriously.

One useful piece of information is your own HIV status and that of your partner(s), and the only way to know this for sure is to get tested. Knowing this could change your life, both psychologically and legally, and many places won’t test you for HIV at all without counselling. Your GP can arrange an HIV test, and if you have a good relationship, this can be the best way to get the support you need. The main disadvantage is that the test, or even your asking about it, will be on your medical record, and that could lead to problems getting insurance and/or a mortgage. Any GUM clinic will offer HIV testing, and your GP will not be told the result if you want to be sure of anonymity, give them a fake name. There are other options for free anonymous testing. In Edinburgh, ROAM Outreach offer such a service in Glasgow the Brownstone and Steve Renon Centres are the places to go. See the listings for details of these, and similar services in Scotland. These organizations also offer free sexual health screening (the "MOT"),

We intend to discuss LGBT rights and safer sex education in Europe, look at men (and women) in kilts, manifest at public events, look at men (and women) in kilts, perform bar ministry, look at men (and women) in kilts, go on the Pride Scotia March and look at men (and women) in kilts.
